

Wisdom

I love to learn, so I listen real well.
The choices I make ring true as a bell.
Knowledge is power, of this I am clear.
The sages that teach me are always near.
They guide me and show me, and I attend
To all they reveal, this I defend.

Compassion

Caring with compassion, it's to this I aspire.
Empathy and love, I give these that I desire.
God, please fill me with generosity and peace.
I give freely to all, so my joy will increase.
Imagine how others feel, understand, reach out.
To be big-hearted is the right way, of this there's no doubt.

Courage

When I feel a little shaky and somewhat afraid,
I slow down my breathing, and the fear soon will fade.
I am quiet and remember that God is right here,
Making sure that I know there is nothing to fear.
I think of brave teachers like Gandhi and King,
Whose lessons renew me like the sweet gift of spring.

